MATERIAL AND CLOTHING

The islands of Macaronesia are located in a transition zone between temperate climates and tropical climates, which together with the reliefs and specific characteristics due to their insularity, make it difficult to define one climate for all the islands.

For this reason, given that the Congress is held in March, we recommend that you include in your luggage mid-season clothing, shelter and rain protection, anticipating possible variations in the weather, especially during field work since it is possible that you will go from the coast to the summit on the same day. In addition, for this field work, we recommend that you consider bringing comfortable and safe clothing and footwear, so that you can travel around the territory comfortably.

In turn, we advise you to bring a practical bag/backpack for the work material (notebook, camera, drawing material ...) so that you can keep your hands free in case you need to use them.
